Kim Komando is the "Digital Goddess®" and the host of America's best and longest running computer and Internet talk radio show. She's also a seasoned broadcaster on the air for 8 years and nationally for almost 5 years on more than 375 talkradio stations. Kim's loyal fans say she's smart, fun, hip, and entertaining. They depend on her to explain, in plain everyday language, a world that was once understandable only to "geeky guys with pocket protectors." She's also a national television host, Los Angeles Times syndicated columnist, and Computer Editor for Popular Mechanics. Kim's got an awesome site on the Internet (www.komando.com).

She's a contributing editor for airline magazines as well as the author of a number of books and tapes including her bestseller 1,001 Computer Answers, an 879 page "bible" on home computers. Kim's latest best-selling book is CyberBuck$: Making Money Online. But, she doesn't stop there! Dummies 101: Creating Web Pages by Kim Komando just hit the stores! The "Digital Goddess®" is known to millions of television viewers as the Komputer Tutor, a video tape series bought by hundreds of thousands.
